In this Phase I trial, we have evaluated the toxicity and biologic response in patients with untreated acute non-lymphocytic leukemia (ANLL) following recombinant interleukin-2 (rIL-2) administration and leukapheresis. One group of 10 patients received rIL-2 (70,000 Units/m2) every 8 hours for a maximum of three consecutive days and blood was removed on the third day by leukapheresis. A second group of 10 patients received rIL-2 (200,000 Units/m2) and blood removal was performed over a period of 3-5 days. This second group did not receive leukapheresis. Administration of rIL-2 was well tolerated. On both schedules, significant decreases in peripheral blood lymphocyte counts were achieved and there was a significant reduction in circulating leukemic cell number. All patients demonstrated objective evidence of hematologic response. The development of non-hematologic toxicities were minimal and most frequent was fever. Of the 10 patients treated with rIL-2 (200,000 Units/m2), eight developed a temperature of greater than or equal to 38.5 degrees C and six of the 10 patients (60%) had a sustained febrile response that was either transient or ongoing at the time of analysis. Two patients who received rIL-2 (70,000 Units/m2) did not develop a fever. Patients receiving leukapheresis recovered their lymphocyte counts more rapidly than those patients who did not have leukapheresis (P = 0.026). An overall trend toward improved survival was noted in the group of patients who received leukapheresis (P = 0.06). We conclude that rIL-2 is safe in the treatment of ANLL and may be more effective when combined with leukapheresis.Q: Why is my ammeter not measuring? I'm new here. I'm trying to learn how to use/setup an ammeter. I'm using a Honeywell H3A6000 ammeter and when I connected the meter to the terminal strip it shows an empty red green and blue LED strip. I then tried another meter as 82157476af
